

David W. Ramseyer

Content Manager

David Ramseyer is the Director of Content Development for Star Licensing Professionals. His duties include marketing content development, website content production and general class material operations/expansion. David is currently involved in the revision of the SLP training manuals, enhancement of the liquor class and the development of future course material.

His formal training includes both a Master's Degree in Teaching that focused on the development and effective delivery of essential academic content as well as a Bachelor's of Science degree in Biology from Western Washington University. He currently is a full time educator of the sciences at Mt. Si High School where he is on a committee to revise the Biology curriculum for that high school.

David Ramseyer has been actively involved in the service industry for the past decade. His experience includes more than 6 years as a server and two as an assistant manager. His experience ranges from training new employees to developing materials used to enhance the restaurants efficiency. This background allows him to couple practical experience with effective delivery to enhance the overall class experience.
